Contest Seen In School Board Election

Four candidates have filed for the two places on the Cameron School Board up for election April 3 as the filing period closed Wednesday.

New candidates are Dr. John Martin and Max Shuemate. Calvin Cobb, incumbent trustee, and Mrs. Betsy Brown had previously announced their candidacy. Coleman Duncum, whose term expires in April, did not file for re-election.

Dr. Martin, who was elected to the school board in 1968, lost his bid for re-election in 1970. Mrs. Brown was also a candidate last year, and lost by only one vote in a close race.

Other contested school board races include Milano, where four candidates are running for three places on the school board. Charles Talbott is a newcomer, while incumbents Joe Willingham, Ben Lagrone, and Stanley Betchan seek re-election.

Buckholts candidates Doyal Arnold and Alvin Fuchs are unopposed for re-election and in Rockdale, incumbents Mercer Cotton, Emory C. Camp, and Dr. L. E. Selden are unopposed.

Three candidates filed for the three regular vacancies on the Rogers school board: C. O. Gunter and Randolph Green filed for re-election, and Doyle Ray filed for the expiring position held by D. D. Ward, who did not file for re-election.

Daniel Lesikar, appointed by the Rogers board in 1970 to the vacancy left by Edwin Psencik, is the only candidate for the one-year term.

Maysfield has one term expiring and Todd Parcus has filed for re-election to that place.

81 DONORS GIVE BLOOD

The Central Texas Red Cross Bloodmobile collected 81 units at its Wednesday visit, according to Sister Aloysius, local blood program chairman.

Prospective donors totaled 86, with five rejections.

Sister Aloysius expressed thanks for blood program officials to all who helped collections exceed the city's 71-unit quota.

She noted that a number of first-time donors came, which helped boost the total.

City Trucks To Offer Weekend Waste Disposal

Two city sanitation trucks will be available on weekends and afternoons from 5 p.m. until dark, for Cameron residents to deposit garbage and brush, Mayor E. A. Perrin announced Friday. The trucks will be located at the city maintenance barn and will be marked.

Residents are asked to deposit only brush, leaves, or limbs in the truck marked "brush", and garbage and other refuse in the truck marked "garbage."

Mayor Perrin said the City Council decided to leave the trucks out on a trial basis, following complaints from rural people about Cameron residents dumping garbage and waste on rural roads. The city's sanitary landfill site is closed and locked at night and on weekends.

The city barn is easily reached from Highway 77 by turning south on the road between the radio station and the self-service gas station. The trucks will be easily seen and will be located for easy access.

The voter registration period was extended this year by the Texas Legislature. Deadline was Feb. 28 instead of Jan. 31.

Valter White, Milam tax assessor - collector, said 130 voters were registered during the extension period.

Of the county total, 189 voters in the 18-21 age bracket registered, White said. They can vote only in federal elections at this time.

Sign In The Sky...

Use of the air facility is to the point where pilots need to know what airfield they are looking up when considering an approach and landing.

It is like a city limits sign in the air. It is like we have finally added another dimension to the two-dimensial growth of wider limits east-west and north-south.

It is a welcome note of interest in air transportation and a facility a few years ago lacking in development as well as use.

We now have a need for a sign in the sky.

Who's Behind Home Plate?

Where, oh where will the meat processors go?

Not unlike a similar standardization of quality controls in the dairy industry a generation ago, the meat processing industry in Texas is maturing.

A struggle which turns the independent processor this way and that goes with Texas' response to federal meat control laws begun three years ago.

Local processors are trying to find out who is in charge. If state inspection is to federal standard, state inspection will continue. If not, the federals will make the inspection.

The point is to protect the public. And many of the independent processors will survive. Some will not. But one gathers they would like to know which set of rules and which umpire they should heed during the changeover.

Washington, D. C. -- The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State:

Soviet Jews

What has the United States done about the treatment of Jews in the Soviet Union and acts of retaliation here and in Moscow?

M.D.Z.
Chicago, Ill.

Dear M.D.Z.:

While Soviet citizens are deprived of many basic human rights that we believe people everywhere are entitled to, Soviet Jews are subjected to a greater degree of cultural deprivation and state control than most other Soviet nationalities. In spite of the provisions of the Soviet constitution guaranteeing equality for all, Soviet Jews are not treated on the same basis as other citizens.

We have repeatedly called world attention -- in the U.N. General Assembly and the U.N. Human Rights Commission -- to the plight of the more than 3 million Soviet Jews and other oppressed Soviet minority groups. Our U.N. representatives have devoted hundreds of hours to this question, expressing concern for Soviet Jews over the strenuous objection of the Soviet delegate.

Our support for Soviet citizens wishing to emigrate has been reiterated many times. Secretary of State Rogers, meeting with Foreign Minister Gromyko in October 1970, underscored the U.S. position that free movement is one of the basic human rights by handing Mr. Gromyko an official representation list of Soviet citizens, including many Jews, who have been denied permission to emigrate to the United States.

We support the efforts of a number of governmental and private international organizations, including the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration in Geneva, which seek to facilitate the emigration of Soviet citizens desiring to leave the U.S.S.R. Furthermore, U.S. Government officials, at various levels and places, have conveyed both officially and privately to the Soviet authorities the adverse reaction on American public opinion of the unfair treatment of Soviet Jews and other minorities.

To focus attention on the plight of Soviet Jews, a few militant Jewish groups in the United States have committed hostile acts against Soviet establishments, personnel, and their families with the avowed aim of provoking a crisis in Soviet-American relations. Major American Jewish organizations swiftly condemned such anti-Soviet violence, as did President Nixon in an exchange of messages on January 11 with Jewish leaders.

Strong measures have been taken by U.S. federal and local authorities in response to criminal actions against Soviet establishments and personnel in this country, including the convening of federal and state grand juries, numerous arrests, and the strenthening of security precautions for the Soviet U.N. Mission and the Soviet Embassy.

The Soviet Government, charging the United States with connivance in anti-Soviet militant activity, cancelled a scheduled cultural program and warned that it could not insure normal conditions for Americans resident in the U.S.S.R. when such conditions were not provided for Soviet citizens in the United States. Shortly thereafter, Americans in Moscow--U.S. officials, businessmen, and journalists--were subjected to officially inspired acts of vandalism and harassment.

The U.S. Government expects the Soviet Government to take all appropriate measures to safeguard American citizens and installations in the U.S.S.R., and it has so informed the Soviet Government.

Veterans May Have Home Loan Guaranty Restored

Veterans and servicemen who have used their GI home loan guaranty and, through no fault of their own, are forced to sell their homes for reasons of health, employment, condemnation proceedings of Federal, state or local government, or other compelling reasons may have their guaranty privileges restored according to Jack Coker, Director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco.

He noted that it must first be released from liability on the original loan before entitlement can be restored -- usually by paying off the guaranteed loan in full.

Direct loans must be paid off in full before entitlement can be resotred, Coker pointed out.

He said VA also will restore eligibility if the property was destroyed by fire or other natural hazards, as well as for certain other compelling reasons which were no fault of the veteran or serviceman.

Some of the reasons for which property may be disposed of and entitlement resotred by VA include:

*Limited space in the veteran or serviceman's home, if a doctor certifies it is a health hazard, but an increase in the size of his family is not in itself sufficient grounds for restoration of entitlement.

*Loss of employment through a reduction-in-force, or curtailment of activities in the occupation where he is employed -- if suitable employment is obtained in another locality.

*Transfer of employment from one locality to another by the veteran's employer.

*Voluntary change of employment to another locality offering the veteran more income and opportunity for advancement -- provided satisfactory evidence is furnished VA.

*Retirement of a veteran, or transfer of a serviceman by his military department while he is still on active duty.

Average American's Tax Bill Is Over $3 Every Day In 1971

It's easy to see what the term "good old days" means when you look at the history of tax growth in this country, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States points out.

Even the year 1960, when per capita taxes were more than $600, would qualify for this description compared to the present.

A National Chamber study shows that in the current fiscal year, governments at all levels will collect an estimated $1,175 in taxes for every man, woman and child. This averages out to more than $3.20 for every calendar day of 1971.

Despite predictions of bankruptcy of our cities and states which bring calls for federal revenue sharing, these smaller political units have been raising taxes at a faster rate than Uncle Sam.

Federal taxes, which have doubled in the past 10 years, were surpassed by the two-and-a-half times increase at state and local levels.

GS Week March 7 - 13

Cameron Girl Scouts Answer National Eco-Action Challenge

More than 100 Cameron Girl Scouts will observe Girl Scout Week March 7-13. Climax of the annual emphasis week will be a Father-Daughter Banquet on Friday, March 12 at Methodist Fellowship Hall.

The Girl Scout organization was founded in the U.S.A. in 1912 and today the program essentially embodies many self-directed, self-planned projects. They involve cooperative community and other organization - sponsored efforts to help solve the problems faced by youth in the modern, complex society.

Mrs. Lester Williams, Cameron Neighborhood chairman, said Girl Scouting is no longer content with yesterday's stereotyped image, the girls and their adult leaders are actively involved in projects aimed at improving:

the quality of our country's physical environment;

the interrelationships of people;

youth participation in planning and decision making.

"Girl Scouts still earn badges along outdoor trails," Mrs. Williams said, "they still work for badges in arts, citizenship, science, world understanding and hundreds of other categories. They learn, as they always have, to use their hands, to acquire the knowledge that helps them deal with everyday living experiences, both for leisure-time fun and for practical duties. But in addition, today's Girl Scouts are much more committed to action projects which help build closer relationships among people."

Ever since its founding, the organization has been deeply involved in projects to help preserve our nation's resources. Inherent in each Girl Scout's promise of duty to her country is a built-in commitment to protect conserve, and enhance its natural beauty and wildlife.

The newest nationwide project for continued Girl Scout action toward quality environment is called Eco-Action. Girl Scout troops in Cameron are answering the "Eco-Action" challenge with plans for planting trees, for beautifying the grounds surrounding the Girl Scout house at Wilson-Ledbetter Park, and with programs to clean-up vacant lots.

CLOSING flag ceremony is an important part of weekly meeting for Girl Scouts. Here Troop 387 retires the colors as leaders Mrs. Bently Hause and Mrs. Skip Hobbs (center) watch. Purpose for the Girl Scout program is to inspire girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism, and service so that they may become happy and resourceful citizens.

New Technology Center At TSTI Sets Open House

WACO

The automotive technology department at the Texas State Technical Institute will hold an open house Monday, March 15 from one o'clock until 9 p.m. at the J. H. Kultgen Automotive Technology Center.

The one million dollar facility is the first new permanent structure to be built on the James Connally Campus of State Tech.

Dedicated by Gov. Preston Smith in October, the new building will house up to one thousand students in a clean shop atmosphere. It features air conditioned classrooms, laboratories, and a large shop which can house 30 automobiles at one time. The equipment in the new building is the latest in design in the automotive field.

Automotive technology courses being taught in the 50 thousand square foot facility include engine mechanics; automatic transmissions; front end alignment and brakes; carobration and fuel; power trains; electrical shop practices; comfort systems; and advance testing in various areas of automotive technology.

The building was named and dedicated in honor of Waco businessman Jack H. Kultgen, president of Bird-Kultgen, Inc., and chairman of the Board of Regents of Texas State Technical Institute.

Sen. Grover Seeks Defeat Of Pay Raise Amendment

Sen. Henry C. Grover of Houston this week predicted defeat for SJR 15, the Constitutional amendment creating a "so-called" ethics commission.

Grover, whose filibuster against the measure was shut off Friday by the Lt. Gov. and Senate sponsors of the bill, said that the "real purpose of the measure is to take from the people their right to set legislative play."

"It's the most unethical ethics bill ever attempted here in Austin. It's a fraud and its real purpose is a pay raise for the legislature, the Lt. Gov., and the Speaker of the House," the Houston senator said.

"If we really want to create an ethics commission we can do it by statute. Everything in this constitutional amendment can be done by statute except the pay raise feature in paragraph 4," he continued.

"The people along presently set our pay in the Constitution and the authors of the so-called ethics commission want to take away that authority and give it to this commission. The only way they can do it is by constitutional amendment, and thus the reason for the suggested constitutional creation of an ethics commission," Grover said.

Grover said "The people are standing in disgust at the legislature because of the current scandals and to attempt a back door pay raise on top of everything else will cause a roar of righteous indignation."

The proposed constitutional amendment is scheduled for a public vote May 18 and Grover predicts its overwhelming defeat and promises to "criss-cross the state urging citizens to vote against it."

Prices Are Reasonable At Lewis-Chili Shoe Store

"Brand shoes at reasonable prices has been our ladder of success."

Thus does Chili Manning, 43 years a veteran in retail shoe sales and shoe store management, sum up the reason Lewis-Chili Shoe Store maintains volume and price with changing public demands and styles.

In fact, Chili has been selling shoes or managing and merchandising shoes as an associate in Lewis-Chili stores for 37 years. That is a record for shoe retailers in Milam County, perhaps even for a wider area in Central Texas.

Red Goose, Rand and "Miss Wonderful" are famous brands which are every-day stock merchandise in the Lewis-Chili Shoe Store, at 109 South Houston, downtown Cameron.

These famous names mean shoes for the entire family. Lewis-Chili is the only strictly family shoe store in Cameron and perhaps Milam County.

Chili Manning's 43 years in the shoe business amount to a lifetime of serving the footwear needs of two generations of Milam Countians: Father, Mother, brother and sister, at every age.

Lewis-Chili recently installed a modern display for updating part of the store. Other improvements continue as time and investment capital permit.

Assisting Manning at the Lewis-Chili Shoe Store are Mrs. Josie Janek, serving customers at the store for 24 years, and Mrs. Oma Rogers, a retail shoe sales clerk for 18 years, full or parttime.

Manning emphasizes Lewis-Chili Shoe Store is by this experience an old, established shoe store that keeps up with the times.

His emphasis on service and reasonable price keep customers coming back and keep Manning and his staff busy, building a newer ladder of success.

I. T. Gilbert Is A Top Salesman For Mutual Of Omaha

You win the Master Builders Club award by top salesmanship and service with Mutual of Omaha.

That is just what Ivey T. Gilbert, Milam County representative of the famous insurance company, delivers.

He is one of Mutual of Omaha's top 12 salesmen in the country, cited January, 1970, as a member of the Master Builders Club of Mutual of Omaha Insurance and its affiliate, United Benefit Life Insurance Company.

He won similar recognition in a plaque presented in January, 1968.

Gilbert is a sales and service representative for Milam County, a responsibility he has held for five years. He has a total of 13 years experience in the insurance sales field.

Four times a year he joins with other representatives of Mutual of Omaha in study course and seminars to update information on today's service needs for both companies and what other companies are offering.

So Gilbert's presentation is timely. And a Mutual of Omaha policy pays and pays and pays, because, he points out, of one clause.

It is a reoccurence clause no other health and accident company provides which can be used over and over and over for the same disability. Gilbert cites one policy holder's experience in which the man received $15,000 for one disability for recurring health problems due to the one deficiency.

Born in Buckholts, Gilbert graduated from Sharp High School, before it was consolidated about 15 years ago. He is married, and he and wife Pat have three children Ronald, 16; Brenda, 13; and Donna, 10. The Gilberts live on West 22nd Street where he also offices. His business address if P. O. Box 63, Cameron.

His awards for production of new policy applications and dollars collected assure the policy buyer, either in health and accident or life insurance, that Ivey T. Gilbert can serve you well.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Infant Individuality

Johnny cries a lot, won't eat regularly, sleeps infrequently, and is extremely active. Johnny's mother can't understand why and begins to think that she's a bad mother.

Bobby hardly ever cries, eats at regular intervals, sleeps most of the time, and plays contentedly when awake. His mother is proud of her good baby and thinks that she must be a great mother.

Both mothers are probably wrong, according to Dr. Arnold J. Sameroff of the University of Rochester, New York.

Dr. Sameroff is studying ways of measuring the personalities of newborn infants with the aid of a mental health research grant from HEW's National Institute of Mental Health. He is finding that infants have differing individualities even at birth.

This means, Dr. Sameroff says, that Johnny was probably just born that way; and if his mother realized this fact, it may help her to adjust and rear her child accordingly. The mother of Bobby is probably simply lucky that her child acts as he does.

In a psychological testing laboratory next to the nursery at the University hospital, Dr. Sameroff measures babies' temperaments by observing their activity, excitability, and sleeping and eating cycles. He thinks that prenatal influences may be related to temperament and notes that anxious mothers may have excitable babies.

This may result, he feels, from the fact that anxious mothers usually have a more difficult labor, which may have some influence in producing Johnny's excessive activity.

Dr. Sameroff is also trying to measure newborns' learning ability. He is finding that babies do not actually learn anything radically new in the first three days of life, but that they do become more efficient eaters, movers, and hearers.

In measuring adaptability, Dr. Sameroff has found that a child less than a day old can learn to suck at a certain rate in order to get the maximum amount of food and can remember a tone that he has heard before.

Through this and other research supported by the NIMH Center for Studies of Child and Family Mental Health, scientists are slowly but surely gathering information that can be tested and put to use for children so as to promote their mental health and prevent or ameliorate mental illness.

Tenth Anniversary

SIX FLAGS ANNOUNCES DATE FOR OPENING

SIX FLAGS Over Texas will begin its tenth anniversary season with a special week-long celebration starting April 3.

The popular theme park at Arlington, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, will be open on a daily basis during the week before Easter. After Easter Sunday, SIX FLAGS will be open on weekends only until daily, summer operation begins June 1.

Officials of the Park also revealed that a major, new ride is under construction at plants in Switzerland and West Germany. To be known as the Jet Racer, the new ride travels on tubular rails at a speed about ten miles per hour faster than SIX FLAGS' well-known Runaway Mine Train.

In addition, the Park will inaugurate a new type of show in its Texas section pavilion. The production will feature Country and Western music performed by talented collegians.

A new show is also slated for Sid and Marty Krofft's Puppet Theater. Called "Pufnstuf" it will feature the star of the Kroffts' popular television series H. R. Pufnstuf.

Scheduled for the Southern Palace Music Hall is a show which Producer-Director David Blackburn calls, "The most ambitious production we have attempted. particularly from a technical standpoint." It will make use of motion pictures and color slides which form a constantly changing backdrop for the musical performance.

SIX FLAGS Over Texas Vice President and General Manager, Charles E. Pafford, said, "We are expecting close to two million people during the 1971 season. All indications are that we will be playing host to more vacationers from outside Texas than ever before in our history." He noted that the new Seven Seas oceanarium will be opening this summer on a site just west of SIX FLAGS and predicted that the dual attractions will lead to at least a two day stay in the area for many out-of-state visitors.

SAY AHHHH — Pretty SIX FLAGS Over Texas hostess Jeannie Huffine checks the freshly-painted molars of an "alligator" from the theme park's river ride. All of the animated figures used on SIX FLAGS' many rides are getting a special renovation in preparation for the park's tenth anniversary season which begins April 3.

"Section 51-a. The Legislature shall have the power, by General Laws, to provide, subject to limitations herein contained, and such other limitations, restrictions and regulations as may by the Legislature be deemed expedient, for assistance grants to and/or medical care for, and for rehabilitation and any other services included in the federal laws as they now read or as they may hereafter be amended, providing matching funds to help such families and individuals attain or retain capability for independence or self-care, and for the payment of assistance grants to and/or medical care for, and for rehabilitation and other services to or on behalf of:

Prime Target For Oilmen...

Edwards Lime Try Is A Real Gamble

By Lloyd Albertson

Drilling was reported underway last week on Milam County's newest wildcat, the W. M. Gallaway No. 1 M. L. Waller, located approximately three miles east - northeast of Milano.

Gallaway, a Farmington, New Mexico operator, but now with headquarters in Austin, scheduled his wildcat in mid - December, but apparently encountered delays in starting drilling operations. Location of the Waller is on a 100 acre lease in D. A. Thompson Survey and about two miles northwest of the Cherokee Navarro Field.

It is permitted to 6,100 feet and reportedly has the Edwards Lime as its objective.

The wildcat was drilling at 5,500 feet on Friday morning.

The Waller likely will be watched with more than usual interest by Texas oilmen and geologists familiar with the area. Because if Gallaway succeeds in completing the wildcat as an Edwards Lime producer, it will be the first time this has been done in Milam County.

A number of attempts by operators in different sections of the county over the years have all failed. In several of the wildcats the failure was largely due to the nature of the Edwards formation.

Gallaway's No. 1 Waller is located about one - half mile northwest of the old Byrd Oil Company No. 1 W. A. Smith which was drilled by the Dallas operator as an Edwards try over twenty years ago. Drilled to a depth of 5,964 feet, the No. 1 Smith had some excellent shows in the Edwards when it was tested on December 16, 1949.

Byrd, the well - known independent, was present during the test and reportedly went to bed that night believing he had a producing well, but discovered the next morning that the well was being ruined by water coming in which could not be stopped. Accordingly, it had to be plugged and abandoned.

EDWARDS REPORT

The Smith wildcat is not the only one to have had shows in the Edwards. In a geologist's report written some years ago, it is stated:

"Edwards Lime oil is known to be in the immediate area. This horizon produced oil in the Gause field in the Lucinda Green and Modest Blakely wells, and oil was also found in the Edwards in this area in the Calvert Smith well."

Both the Lucinda Green and the Blakely were drilled by D. H. Byrd some 15 or 20 years ago and are located four to four and one-half miles northeast of the Waller wildcat. Both were ruined by flooding water.

Although there are some 17 formations underlying that area, only one of them besides the Edwards has had oil shows. This is the Navarro in its A, B, and C zones.

Concerning the Edwards, the report states: "In this area the Edwards Lime is a thick, porous permeable limestone, its average effective thickness exceeding 150 feet. Quantitive calculations made from the microlog indicate an average porosity of 13% which is excellent for a limestone. The Edwards is very persistent in this area and an effective thickness of 150-200 feet may be anticipated."

Unfortunately, the disadvantage of the Edwards is the water problem. In the Gause field the Edwards is known to have approximately 14 feet of oil saturation underlain by bottom water and commenting on this, the report explains:

"Due to the very powerful water drive present in the Edwards Lime, it is necessary to obtain a relatively thick oil column above water contact. If the Edwards has only 12 to 14 feet of oil saturation along with some 135 feet of water saturated section, it is very difficult to obtain a water-free completion."

This, of course, explains why Byrd's old Smith wildcat failed along with several other attempts to complete a well in the Edwards in the area.

OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES

But if the formation creates difficulties, it apparently offers some sizeable opportunities also. To quote from the report:

"If the Edwards Lime could be found oil saturated within the closures occurring along the faults and high enough it could give the aforementioned acreage a wonderful chance to be a very prolific discovery in view of the great thickness of the Edwards Lime. It is almost certain to have a very strong and effective water drive.

"In order to illustrate the tremendous potential of this zone, an example has been worked out --- If it is assumed that the Edwards has a net oil saturated thickness of 150 feet, an average porosity of 13%, a connate water saturation of 25%, a formation factor of 1.25 and an overall recovery factor of 60% by natural water drive, a well having an effective drainage area of 40 acres would produce 2,120,000 barrels of oil.

"This would certainly be one of the greatest oil discoveries made along the Gulf Coast in many years."

This, of course, explains why the Edwards continues to be a prime target by operators drilling wildcats in Milam County.

Drilling techniques have improved considerably since Byrd drilled his No. 1 W. A. Smith two decades ago, and now it may be possible to overcome the water hazard in the Edwards Lime.

Rumors heard in the oil patch say there are now ways it can be done by careful drilling. This will be known for sure in a few days, no doubt, when Gallaway's No. 1 Waller's bit drills into the Edwards Lime.
